

TRICIA MARTIN & SARAH ECKLER

SUPERLATIVE WINNERS

The first annual Barb Kucel Legacy award for Selflessness was awarded to Tricia Martin and Sarah Eckler!

Tricia and Sarah sets the tone here. The work matters and they'll be the first to roll up their sleeves and work hard and they're very well respected for that. But it's their hearts, compassion, empathy, and servant leadership that makes them and this team truly special. Valuing others, having humility – always putting other's first, being great listeners, exuding trust and caring no matter how busy they are, no matter what THEY happen to be going through or worried about that day – makes all of us feel safe, cared for, and loved. In good times and bad, and everything in between, and this team has experienced so much this past year or two during Covid, when each of us recalls our personal struggles and triumphs they remember a number of people in this space being there for them, and many can say Sarah & Tricia were at the front of that group!

Sarah and Trish are very active on social media. They are always commenting, reacting, complimenting, and sharing nice thoughts with partners on Facebook, Instagram, and Workplace. They are often texting and calling each other making plans for how to recognize, celebrate, and help others!

Another skill Trish and Sarah have is something Barb always has is connecting with people, small talk, conversation, knowing and recalling so much about so many of us. They make it look so easy, but it is hard work and tough, but we continue to see them appear to be so naturally attentive and aware of other's needs and the station they're in. Barb, Sarah, and Trish are saints, Jared says spiritual beyond intuitive. They have had the best for a role model and teacher Mom, and Jared is proud to say back to Barb – they are and have been role models honoring her legacy of selflessness. Congratulations to you both!

BARB KUCEL SELFLESSNESS
LEGACY AWARD

About This Superlative Award

Our Barb Kucel Selflessness Legacy Award is awarded to a Townsend Partner who always gives, thinks of, and does for others, just like Barb.

Her generosity means the most because she gives her time, gives recognition and thought to doing for others. It's the thought that counts and when someone thinks about us often, we know we are special.

Our work, taking care of others is what makes our company stand out. It's how we stick together.