

KAYLA HAYES

SUPERLATIVE WINNER

We can't get enough of recognizing the wonderful women that work here! This week we celebrated our 3 finalists for our Communication award, pictured top right, Sarah Eckler, Adele Armstrong, and our new Communication Ambassador and winner, Kayla Hayes!!

All 3 women project confidence and knowledge balanced with empathy, relatability, humor, and kindness in all of their in person and written interactions within and outside the company. The detail, accuracy, and urgency they apply to their work and all of us helps run the business, keep us informed, and organized.

Kayla helped us improve our turn time, consistency, and understanding for all planning in the final stages of production leading up to shipping. An area that had the largest need for improvement showed just that through her connecting us all and her follow through! We all appreciate all of her efforts and consistent communication and urgency to help us do our best in an area of production where the least amount of time remains and the biggest desire and hope to execute resides! Shes a difference maker and a wonderful woman helping us take care of our customers and each other!! Congratulations Kayla and thank you to all these fabulous finalists!

COMMUNICATION AWARD

About This Superlative Award

Communication is one of our original and most important values, and is continually redefined. Where communicating a lot of detailed, timely, and at times under pressure info politely, accurately, pleasantly, and above and beyond what is expected.
